

Global Strategies for HIV Prevention

2010 Google Inc. Charitable Giving Fund of Tides Foundation Grant Overview

In 2010, Global Strategies for HIV Prevention received a four million dollar award from the Google Inc. Charitable Giving Fund of Tides Foundation to further our work saving lives and alleviating the suffering of women and children in neglected conflict and post conflict regions by stopping the spread of HIV.

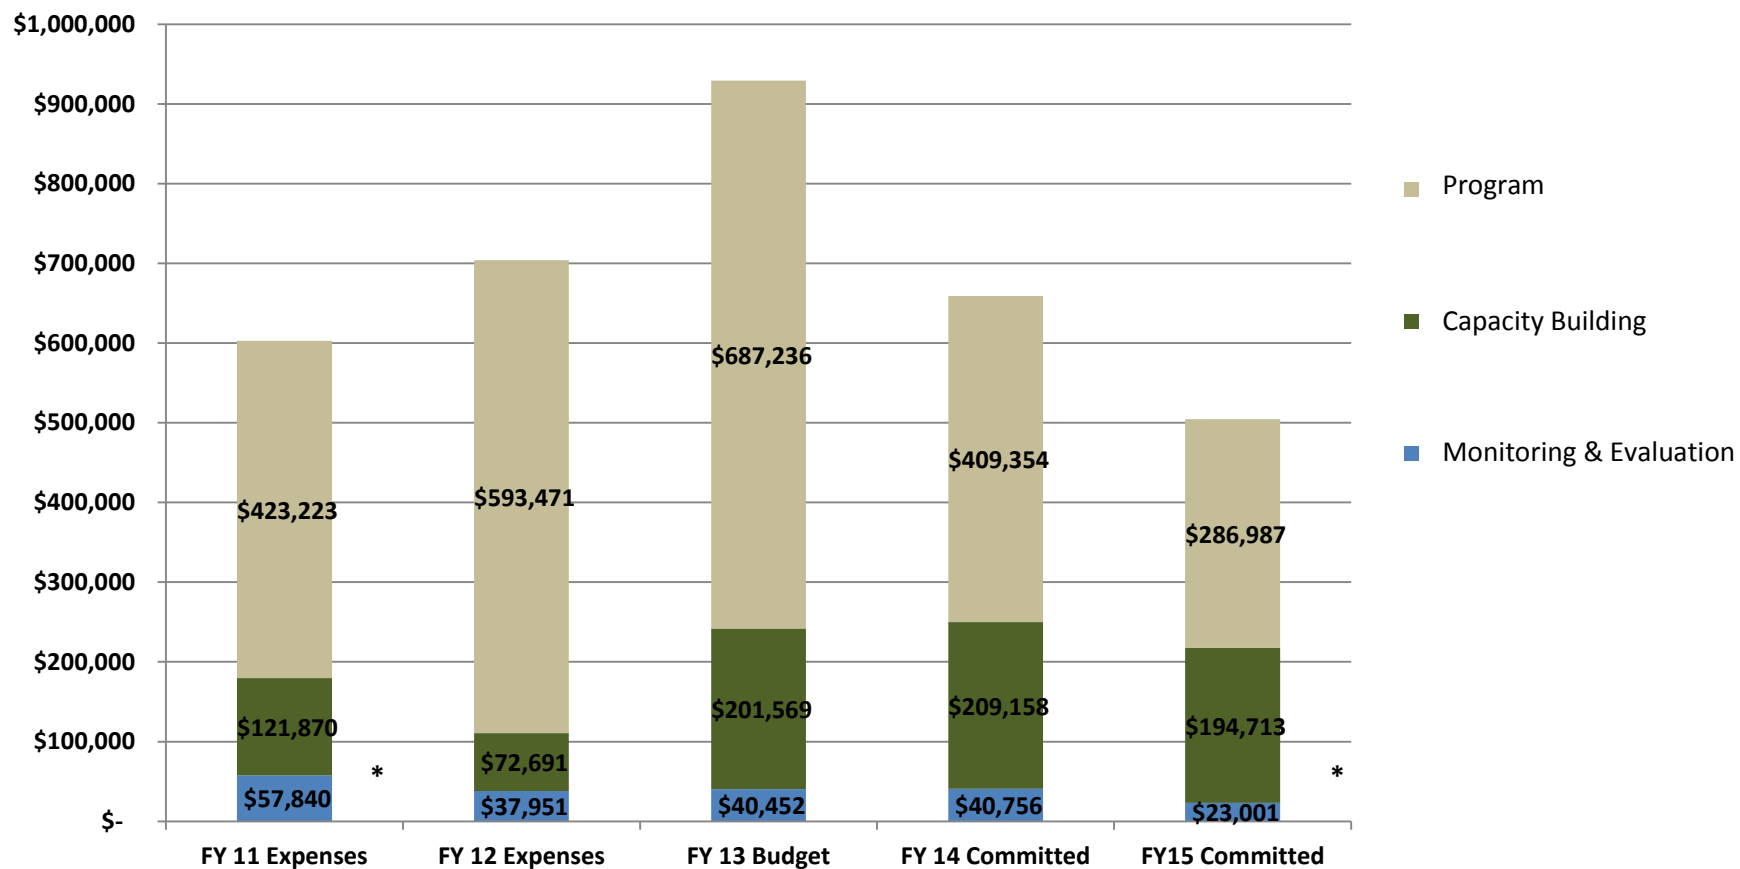

Global Strategies for HIV Prevention opted to allocate funding over a multi-year period, intentionally planning work and funding disbursements to extend over four years. This multi-year approach facilitated a reasonable pace for selecting indigenous leadership and implementing partners and a measured approach to implementation. It also fostered integration of detailed monitoring and evaluation and provided a graduated approach to post-project transition once goals are achieved.

Progress reports on this grant are provided annually and outline achievements relative to the goals and objectives. This report is posted publicly on our website at: <http://globalstrategies.org/aboutus.html> to facilitate organizational transparency.

We welcome your comments and questions about this grant and the areas of our work which it directly supports. Questions or comments can be directed to our Executive Director at info@globalstrategies.org or by telephone at 415-451-1814.
